Fans will be able to track and analyse each movement of their favourite players right from gameplay. This is the first time EA has brought its proprietary MotionScan Motion Capture into the game. The result is a deeper and more realistic-feeling gameplay experience and FIFA 22 introduces the all-new “Instant Action” create-a-player system, which allows gamers to create a customised player using a real-world player movement template. With the addition of this new feature, players will gain new high-level tactics in addition to improving their skills. “FIFA 21 has completely redefined the way football is played on a global scale and we can’t wait to show off the game’s next generation of motion capture tech for the very first time in EA SPORTS FIFA 22,” said Aaron McHardy, Director of Product Development at EA SPORTS. “The game has grown its name worldwide thanks to the innovative gameplay, great variety of modes and captivating football action of FIFA 21 but when you start playing FIFA 22 you’ll understand why we had to get the technology to next level.” EA SPORTS FIFA 22 is playable at E3 Expo 2016 in Los Angeles on June 11-12 at the EA booth #4300 in the West Hall. EA SPORTS FIFA 22 is playable at Gamescom 2016 in Köln, Germany, starting on August 13.
